Answer Criticism At Municipal Meet

The annual meeting of the ratepayers of the Municipal District of Harmony was held in the community hall on Saturday February 24th, with H. Higgins in the chair and J. W. Cain acting as secretary. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and accepted. The financial statement was the chief matter of discussion. In this G. Marks, H. Williams, W. J. Ellis, J. Brown led, drawing replies from A. Miller, reeve, the secretary, C. Rhodes and councillor Griffin. Criticism of relief expenditures brought to light the fact that every precaution had been taken by the council to assure themselves of their liability in connection with payments made and in many cases, the reeve stated, where they had hesitated to give immediate relief, they had been forced to do so by the police.

A discussion arose over the cost of grasshopper bait and the question was asked whether the bait actually was of any use. The reeve answered the question, saying that he had been satisfied with same and felt that he had saved grain which otherwise would have been lost.

Efforts made to criticize the action of the council in regard to the mill rate (3 mills) levied on the hospital district when ratepayers were given to understand it should not exceed 1.4 mills, brought the statement from the secretary that at 2 mills they were not able to cover the requirement.

J. Brown questioned the council regarding the amount of taxes he was paying in the Yale school district, saying that they were now as high as when school was being contracted. Mr. Brown felt that there should not be any outstanding arrears in this district. The council replied that they were making every effort within their power, to collect the taxes.

Other questions were answered, mostly referring to details of expenditure and the answers were evidently quite satisfactory.

A motion by J. Hagerman, suggesting that the council investigate the public works programs being sponsored by the dominion government, and see if it were possible for the district to benefit in any way by same was adopted.

A discussion over a municipal doctor arose. Several questions were asked and councillor J. Long suggested that W. G. Hunt, secretary of the medical association, be asked to address the ratepayers at a special meeting on the different principles of hiring a municipal doctor. The suggestion was adopted. A. Miller, reeve, stated that due to the fact that there was such a difference of opinion on the hiring of a municipal doctor, it would be better to continue as at the present time and let those who became indebted to the municipal party for medical service, work out their indebtedness. This method met with approval.

At this time F. L. Watt of High River, secretary of a Preventative Health clinic and Dr. Sanders of Calgary, addressed the meeting. Mr. Watt paid for the Rockefeller Institute and was a means of extending to the country, a health service similar to that of the cities. Clinics were already established at Red Deer and High River and were carrying on.

The School Of Experience

People learn their most important and valuable lessons in the school of experience. It is a school that opens at birth and closes with death, and there are no vacations here. We are passing through some experience at all times, and we are imbibing knowledge, learning something as a result. It may be that, like lessons learned in school and from books, we may forget some of the lessons of experience, for a time at any rate; even more frequently we may greatly prolong in order that it may be impressed upon us in the way that is necessary. And while individuals may learn a lesson from some experience very quickly, it is usually a much slower process for communities and nations to so learn and profit by experience.

Consider the present economic upheaval throughout the world, now continuing into its fifth or sixth year. Some people, no doubt, learned valuable lessons from it during the first twelve-month of its duration; others have learned as the months and years have gone by. Communities and nations have learned some lessons, and some have, of course, learned more and faster than others. All are still learning; learning perhaps a little more thoroughly now than they were two and three years ago. But it is quite evident that the nations have not yet grasped, or at any rate accepted, the great truths which the Great Depression has been teaching any more than they grasped, or accepted, the great truths which the Great War should have impressed upon all mankind.

Possibly it is because many have not yet learned the lessons, or at least accepted the teachings of the existing depression; or that the depression is so greatly prolonged and still continues. There are certain lessons which the nations of mankind must learn, and not only learn but put their learning and knowledge into practical effect, before the depression will be overcome. The longer the depression continues the more forcibly it is teaching those lessons. They are lessons being learned through bitter experience, but it is the stupidity and unwillingness of man to learn obvious lessons that is prolonging that bitter experience.

The four years of death, horror, suffering and destruction of the Great War, together with its aftermath of trouble and losses, of which the present chaotic economic and financial situation is a part, have not taught the nations the utter futility of war. Surely they appreciate the teachings of the Great War and its outcome, but they absolutely will not take the lesson to themselves, with the result that the world is trembling to-day on the very brink of another terrible war.

But while the nations may thus be much slower than individuals to learn lessons they should learn and profit by, people in all countries are learning and in time their thoughts and their influence will direct the nations. It is, of course, the duty of every citizen to do his part, but it is to accept a great truth as the result of experience than it is to get a few individuals to accept it. Individuals are now in ever increasing numbers learning valuable lessons as a result of the experiences through which they are passing, lessons which will not be easily forgotten but which will leave their impress on several generations to come. It will take time to translate their views into community and national life and action. That evolutionary process, nevertheless, is under way.

It is inevitable, too, that out of the experiences of a transition period such as the present, many ideas and theories will be advanced in all sincerity and seriousness as the solution of existing ills. It has always been so in all transition periods in the world's history, and it will probably continue to be so at all times of marked change. The mental processes of people are quickened by the experiences through which they are passing, but in numerous cases this merely results in the adoption of faddist or extreme ideas, and these, advanced as cure-alls for existing ills, are, generally speaking, mutually destructive to the one of the other.

Clear thinking, therefore, is one of the most essential requirements in times like the present. Our experiences should teach us not to act hastily. They should recall to us that we made great mistakes in the mounting days of prosperity, and they should put us on guard against committing other and equally great mistakes under the influence of a great depression. It is never wise to reach definite and far-reaching decisions beyond recall when we are either on the mountain peaks or at the bottom of the deep valleys.

In a word, in the school of experience we should learn that it is most important, vitally so, that we order and control our thinking powers, and apply them to the practical problems at hand in full realization of the fact that, while there is no short cut to betterment or perfection, it is better to be obtained by practical, united effort, while what now may be regarded as ideal will, if and when realized, prove to be but a stepping stone to a still nobler ideal.

Marvels of the Human Eye

THE EYE BY F. M. CROWE

— MOORE SPECIALIST, CALGARY

NO. 2.—SOME OF THE FACTS AND THEIR USES

The Choroid is the second of the three principal layers of the eye, and is composed principally of blood vessels for the nourishment of the eye, the pigment color acting as a protection against excessive light which might otherwise affect the sensitive Retina. People who lack sufficient pigment are much troubled by "glare." An Albino is a person devoid of pigment. The Choroid layer lies between the Cornea and the Retina, all three being closely attached.

The Crystalline Lens (hereafter referred to as the Lens) hanging vertically behind the pupil is transparent, elastic and even when in a state of rest, very biconvex in shape and is capable of assuming still greater convexity. This characteristic is known as "Accommodation" which is most important because it is this property which enables us to see at different distances. Accommodative power is at its height at the age of two and steadily diminishes as we grow older. At the age of about forty the average person has lost as much as "Accommodation" which he needs largely for focus at the reading distance although vision may be perfect further off at any age. Hence the necessity for wearing glasses for close work after middle life is due to a natural change common to man. The Lens is made up of many layers as is an onion which accounts for its elasticity when acted upon by the Ciliary muscle which is attached to the outside edge of the Capsule which surrounds the Lens. Sometimes the Lens becomes hard, cloudy and opaque and in this condition it is known as a Cataractous Lens or Cataract induced by various causes such as Bright's Disease, haues, extreme old age and occupations requiring excessive heat and light. Contrary to a common belief, Cataracts never grow on the outside of the eyeball. So much misunderstanding exists regarding Cataracts that the matter will be discussed fully in a future article. The Retina is the inner lining and the most delicate, sensitive and important part of the eye. It is really a spreading out of the Optic Nerve which connects the eye with the brain where seeing is actually accomplished. Although as thin as tissue paper, the Retina is composed of many layers each having its special function. The mysterious operation of the Retina is, generally speaking, a sealed book. It is very sensitive to light impression, and may be likened to the plate on a camera. All objects are focused on the Retina upside down and we see them as we do because our brains have interpreted them from this fancy.

Many Interesting Exploration Ideas Being Shown in London

The polar exhibition opened recently by the Royal United Service Institution in London is attracting many visitors for the exhibits include exploration relics from the days of Scott and Shackleton. Among the exhibits are the photographs of the south pole, Amundsen's flag and reckoning which told Scott that he had been forestalled, and the Union Jack which was hoisted at the pole. Another exhibit is the last stock of food carried by Scott and his companions, including the curry powder which Scott found gave him indigestion.

Majority Would Not Worries

New York city authorities the other day began an experiment to see just what percentage of street beggars are really "deserving cases." They arrested 63 panhandlers on the streets, investigated them, and offered jobs to those who wanted them. Seven of the 63 were dignified to get the jobs. The others, being men who preferred begging to working, immediately were sent to jail.

Dominion Drama Festival

Second Festival To Be Held In The Little Theatre, Ottawa

The second Dominion Drama Festival will be held in the Little Theatre, Ottawa, in the last week of April, when teams from all over the country will present plays in competition for the trophy presented by His Excellency, the Earl of Beaulieu, governor general of Canada. During the weeks prior to the festival elimination contests are being held throughout Canada. Rupert Harvey, a distinguished English actor who was the adjudicator at the final competition in Ottawa last year is traveling around the Dominion acting as judge in the various eliminations.

Preliminary competitions are being held at Halifax, Saint John, Quebec, Halifax, Ottawa, Kingston, Toronto, London, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, Vancouver and other places. In many instances it has been found necessary, so great is the interest aroused to have eliminations prior even to those upon which Mr. Harvey will adjudicate.

From about 120 entrants it will be necessary for the adjudicator to select representatives of all the provinces to compete in the final competition at Ottawa. It is probable that the central committee of the festival will issue sufficient invitations to make a full week of performances in Ottawa.

J. T. Grein, one of the most distinguished figures in the English theatre and a well-known London critic, has been secured as the adjudicator at the final competition.

The stimulus which has been given to the community drama by the inauguration of the festival by His Excellency, the Governor General of Canada, has exceeded the highest hopes. In almost every instance, and despite the difficulty of the times, the other organizations have largely increased memberships and here, there and everywhere new groups are being formed.

Paves Mild Inflation

Adoption of a modified system of codes similar to that used in the United States, mild inflation, raising of commodity prices, state control of business from a modifying and regulating point of view, and clear thinking as a means of returning Canada to an economic state of prosperity were advocated by Premier Brown in addressing a banquet of the Alberta provincial board of the Retail Merchants' Association.

Motorist Pays The Shot

Alberta motorists contributed $24.10 of every $100 cash receipts collected by Alberta in 1932-33, according to a statement issued by the Alberta Motor Association. Of this amount $13.90 or every $100 represented gasoline tax, while the balance was assessed in registration and license fees.

Wider use of native flowers in Canadian gardens was urged at Toronto at the closing session of the Ontario Horticultural Association's annual convention by Mr. J. A. Wilcox, of Ottawa.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's mother, and Gus Maston, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. At a party at an exclusive club Peter entertains Camilla's guests with impersonations. When the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the party, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep in the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Avis is stunned and Camilla's mother, however, Camilla decides that she must leave the home of her adopted parents immediately and go to live with Rose, her sister, who is a life partner in a business house. They decide to take an apartment. Bowman and Wells, an advertising agency, where Camilla has submitted some of her work send for her and tell her they have a new account which requires unusual treatment of juvenile art. To Camilla's surprise she learns that the account is that of her father's company, which has decided on an extensive campaign to bolster up lagging business. After a conference with Mr. Bowman, Camilla decides to attempt the work. With ideas running riot in her head she goes home and spends the night sketching. The critics were enthusiastic about her work, and Mr. Weeks offers her a salary of $80.00 a week to start and a prospect of having it doubled. She goes to keep a dinner engagement with Peter.

(Now On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXXII

Peter detected her electrified manner the moment he saw her, and thought he never had seen Camilla so lovely. He took both her hands in his, gently, and poured his love and adoration into her eyes with his gaze. "Camilla, I can't endure this any longer. I am dying without you any longer."

"Even the agony is sweet?" she asked.
"Yes, because I live every hour in the anticipation of seeing you again." She smiled into his eyes, happily. "Then our plan is a huge success. That is just the way I wanted it to be. Don't you see, dear, if I were with you always, there would be no sweet agony of anticipation? And that would be tragic—very tragic for us. Half of the joy of life is anticipation."

He argued with resignation. "Why do I argue with you about coming to me when I know I can't take care of you?"

"We're not going to argue about it, Peter. That's all settled. Besides, to-night is a very special celebration. I can't wait another minute to tell you my secret, so let's go in and sit down where we can talk. Do you suppose we can get the same table we had at our wedding night? This occasion is almost as important."

"It must be important, if it makes you so beautiful." His eyes did not leave her face, as he tucked her hand into his arm and they entered through the gracious doorway of Charm Cottage again.

Camilla glanced up from the menu delightedly. "Here is the same special menu we had for our wedding dinner, Peter."

"Then that's what we're having. Okay?"

"It couldn't be better."

"Two special dinners," he said to the hovering waitress. "Now tell me," he folded his arms on the table and faced Camilla eagerly. "You have a position?"

"Oh, yes, but that isn't the best part of it," she explained. "Let me begin at the very first and tell you everything!"

He laughed agreement. "Spouses, thrills and all. It promises to be dramatic."

It was, he had to admit when she had finished. His heart swelled with pride for her success and ached a little with regret—because he could not give her, but because she was so exquisite and precious that he wanted to claim his right to take care of her and spare her all the social demands and sacrifices which even so promising a future involved.

He knew that this sudden achievement of the whole world was a golden light for her, like the varicolored spotlights on the stage ensembles, would cost her, now property and now make-up.

She had yet to learn that for every victory there is some defeat, for every joy some disappointment and for every task achieved some endless hours of toil and anxiety. He knew that Camilla would meet these challenges gallantly, of course. But he wished that he might spare her any of the disillusion and could sort out for her only the sparkling gem of genius and spirit, saving her the bitter disappointment which prevailed their majority in everything that became a task.

Camilla deserved to be treasured like a precious jewel, herself, yet she belonged to him and he could not lift his hand to protect her from his slightest need or anxiety. Rather, he had added to these. A fierce determination burned within him while he waited for happy days. He would give his soul to keep her happy like that, always, he thought.

Mrs. Hoyt accepted the news of Camilla's position and her departure from her home with resigned cheerfulness. She had not gained her inheritance, her happy days. He would give his soul to keep her happy like that, always, he thought.

Her mind continually denied what her eyes beat: proud names made ingenuous and supported by plectrum, the rapid rise of a social order which recognized ability above class, established fortunes tottering by the hour while new ones of magic-beastlike growth replaced them, life that loved and laughed and snapped its fingers at amuse-conviction.

She had been trying to tie a product of this modern age into the pattern of two generations before. No wonder she had failed to accomplish her purpose. Strange, that she had selected this child of foreign parentage to replace those denied her. Just another inconsistency of human emotions, that the beautiful little child had appealed so strongly to her mother's heart.

"I hope you won't think I am ungrateful if I leave you in the care of the summer?" Camilla inquired anxiously, after she had listened with calm patience to her mother's surprised comments upon her new position.

"But I don't see why you should. If you have to leave in an office all day, it would be much easier for you to stay here until you are adjusted. For that matter, you need not leave here at all this year. We'd really like to have you with us, even if you are working for yourself." Her expense was offered with more warmth than she would have admitted to herself.

"That's very kind of you, but I prefer to do all the adjusting now and have it over with. I really don't feel as if I were independent so long as I lived here with you, in such circumstances as my salary could not afford. Besides, Rose needs me for awhile. I believe we can do it for each other while I am waiting for Peter to become established."

Mrs. Hoyt sighed heavily. "I'm afraid, Camilla, that never will be a man has to have more than ambition to succeed and Peter's opportunities are so limited. I don't know why."

"Let's not go over all that again," Camilla entreated. "I know why I married Peter, and I'd marry him again, even if I thought he had no chance and even if he were desperate than ambition. He has talent, which will not come sooner or later."

Mrs. Hoyt's griefed eyes still ascribed her gravely while she resumed her tolerant acceptance of the situation. "Just where do you propose to live, Camilla. I hope you will consider that you have been a really good mother of your life."

Already, she was reaching out tentacles into Camilla's future life, in an attempt to order it according to her desires, as she had done in the past.

"I can't very well consider anything except the total of mine and Rose's salaries," she protested. "After all—I'm sorry—but it was you who changed my position from that of a Hoyt, even before I became Camilla Anson. That is what I shall have to be—a working girl and the wife of a genius. I'll look for an apartment as soon as I can."

"But that's an impossible location," objected the horrified Mrs. Hoyt. "How impossible?"

"How very common and unattractive. How could you endure living in such surroundings?" "I don't expect to gratify my best-looking eyes for awhile. If we have a clean room in an agreeable atmosphere, it will do until we can afford better. That may be even so, but when we hope she will optimistically, pulling a wide-trimmed panama hat over her short black curls and tucking in the curious locks that persisted in peeping curiously into her face and shining eyes.

"But I must hurry along and find just such a place to-day, so we can get settled tomorrow, rest Sunday and be ready to work on Monday. I'll see you at dinner."

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake up your Liver Life — Without Calomel
You are "feeling right" simply because your liver is working properly. The liver is the most important organ in the body, and it is the source of all the energy and vitality that you need. If your liver is not working properly, you will feel depressed and tired. This is largely due to the fact that the liver is the source of all the energy and vitality that you need. Petition Parliament For Right To Secede From Commonwealth
Unique in history of the British Empire will be the petition to the King and imperial parliament setting forth the case for secession of the state of Western Australia from the Australian Commonwealth.

This petition is now being considered and prepared for submission to the legislature of Western Australia. It follows the state-wide referendum of nearly a year ago when the voters registered a majority of almost two to one in favor of secession.

A special secession committee is also preparing a 300-word report on the question. The petition, when approved by the state legislature, will be forwarded to His Majesty and to the house of lords and house of commons in London.

Western Australia, with a population of 440,000 and an area of 975,000 square miles, occupies its own financial difficulties to disabilities under the federal constitution. The state's desire for secession is increased by her geographical position, separated as she is from other parts of the commonwealth by a thousand miles of desert.

Little Helps For This Week

"I will be glad and rejoice in Thy mercy, for Thou hast considered my trouble. Thou hast my soul in adversity."—Psalm 31:7.

All by This is ordered, chosen.

Each drop that fills my daily glass, Thy hand Prescribes for ill's none else can understand.

And all is known to Thee.
—A. L. Newton.

God knows us through and through. Not the most secret thought we hid from ourselves is hidden from Him. As then we know ourselves through and through we come to see ourselves as God sees us, and then we can catch some little glimpse of His designs with us, how each ordering of His providence, each checking of our desires, each failure of our hopes is just fitted for us, and for something in our own spiritual state which others know not of, and of which till then we knew not.

Then we come to this knowledge: we must take all in faith, believing, although we know not, the goodness of God towards us. As we know ourselves we thus far know God.—E. B. Pusey.

Dean Brock Of B.C. Elected Member Of Geological Society

Dean R. W. Brock of the faculty of applied science, University of British Columbia, has been elected a corresponding member of the Geological Society of China. Membership in this society is conferred only on distinguished geologists who have made contributions to China.

For more than ten years, Dean Brock has been an associate at University of B.C. have been making a geological survey of the island of Hongkong at the request of the British government.

Dr. Brock and Dr. E. J. Schofield began the work in 1927. It was carried on during the next two years by Dr. M. Y. Williams and the late Dr. W. L. Uglow. Dean Brock returned for the winter 1928-27 and last year had leave of absence from the university for several months in order to complete the task.

Apple Surprise Pudding

5 tablespoons Borden's Corn Starch
1 cup water
1 well-beaten egg
1/2 cup raisins
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups Crown Brand Corn Syrup
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 tablespoon butter.
Cook Corn Starch blended with salt and water in a double boiler with Corn Syrup until thick, for 20 minutes. Add well-beaten egg. Place sliced apples in pudding dish. Pour the raisins and sprinkle with sugar well mixed with spices. Dot over all with raisins. Pour the hot apple sauce over all. Bake in upright apple are tender when pricked with a sharp knife. Serve hot or cold with lemon or maple sauce, or garnish with whipped cream.

Seditious Persons Advised To Give "Munitions A Wide Birth"
Persons whose activities are seditious were warned to give Munitions a wide berth by Hon. W. J. Major, attorney-general, in the House of Commons. Major's warning came in the debate on the speech from the throne.

"Agitation who called themselves Communists, and others who professed to be ultra-nationalists, have all cut from the same cloth," Mr. Major said. "They had for their aim the disruption of law and order and the destruction of government."

Conditions in Russia

Hearing so many wonderful things about Soviet Russia There always has been two sides to every story, I shall try and bring some of the happenings to light. Following are some items taken from several letters received from friends and relatives over in Russia.

We all know Russia is spending millions in spreading her propaganda in our country and other countries. Almost every riot and uprising in our country today is traced to beginning with the Bolsheviks at the head of it.

No wonder in these trying times our unemployed and hapless are willing to gobble up such stuff. You will hear them say, "look at Russia there is no unemployment." But they do not give the reason why.

In Russia everyone is compelled to work at whatever job they wish you to do, or you are shot. There are no wages. You are given a meal ticket. You must be there on your job on the minute. If you are ever late your meal ticket is taken from you and you are through, starvation being the only thing left. It is very simple for you to be late, as no one has a watch in the poorer class. If your boss hears you grumble you are bound to be late the next morning as he will see to that.

The foremen and bosses are bandits and Crooks. No honest man is allowed such a position. They have the most wonderful secret service police called the G.P.U. The police are judge, jury and prosecutor all in one. If you are under suspicion you just turn up missing, no one knows what has become of you. Anyone is liable to be a spy, and sometimes one word betrays you. Robbing and plundering is an every day and night occurrence. People that are struck off the social list make their living by selling field mice, if they are still strong enough to catch them. Cats and dogs are being eaten until no more are to be found. Whole districts are dying out, towns with a population of as many as 3,500 have died right out.

C. writes, that in the Cuban district there is a terrible famine at the present time. Ten to twenty persons are dying daily, so many in fact that they are just left lying about, as the people are too weak to dig graves to bury them.

Just imagine our country coming to this.

From Searle Grain Pamphlet

The Searle index of the purchasing power of wheat over the 10 things that farmers have to buy shows that on February 14th a bushel of wheat at the average country point in Western Canada had a purchasing power of 54 per cent. of that which it had in 1913-14. (The purchasing power a month ago, January 18th, was 57 per cent. of 1913-14.)

There can be no question but that recovery can hardly occur in Western Canada until the purchasing power of wheat is approximately back to that which it enjoyed in 1913-14. This means at least that wheat must rise in price to the pre-war level and that the price of "The things farmers have to buy" must come down to pre-war level or that the two sets of prices must come together at some different level.

Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bond entertained at dinner on Sunday February 25th, the occasion being Mr. Bond's 50th birthday. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. F. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ulrich, Mr. and Mrs. I. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ashmore and Mrs. N. Patterson and Miss Rheta Campbell.

Farmers Attention!

GRASSHOPPER CAMPAIGN 1934

Careful surveys during the fall of 1933 indicated a widespread infestation of grasshoppers in Southern Alberta for 1934. The area affected extends from the United States border north to the Corner line of the C.P.R. and west from the Saskatchewan border to the Macleod-Calgary line of the C.P.R. and the Calgary-Three Hills-Mirror line of the C.N.R.

MEETINGS OF FARMERS

Will be held in the near future to discuss control measures for the coming spring season. Farmers in the area desirous are urged to watch for posters and keep in touch with their municipal organization or Department of Agriculture field men or with the Department at Edmonton, for information and advice.
